

NEW BOOK

CREDIT MASTERCLASS

Good credit risk management continues to be essential in today's modern economies, with a great deal of assets employed within the balance sheet of many financial institutions.

This book is intended to be a practical Credit Masterclass workbook, written for those with experience of bank commercial lending who wish to reinforce their risk management skills and further develop their lending techniques.

This book will assist not only in the valuation of individual credits, but also inform readers of the importance of wider (macro) levels of credit risk management within the bank's portfolio. At the completion of the workbook readers will have availed themselves of the opportunity to gain understanding and to practice credit skills associated with a wide range of corporates and specialized lending such as loan syndications.
